His rose-pink pugree, with the egret and the diamond brooch to hold the egret in its place his jeweled sabre his swaggering, almost ruffianly air were no more meant to escape attention than his charger that clattered and kicked among the crowd, or his following, who cleared a way for him with the butt ends of their lances. He rode ahead, but every other minute a mounted sepoy would reach out past him and drive his lance-end into the ribs of some one in the way. There would follow much deep salaaming; more than one head would bow very low indeed; and in many languages, by the names of many gods, he would be cursed in undertones. Aloud, they would bless him and call him Heaven-born! This item ships from La Vergne, TN. Paperback.
